THE BIG AUCTION SALE OF 28 Magnificent City Lots TUESDAY,
DECEMBER 27,
AT 2 P.M.,

Some Plain Facts Regarding Springfield

It is now conceded by all that with the splendid school facilities we now have, and they are second to none in the State, with its great Loose Leaf Tobacco market, with the prospects of a large stemmy and various other industries Springfield is fast becoming a LITTLE CITY and with some BOOSTING can be made one of the best cities in the State. It is the BEST NOW to its size. All that it needs is SIZE or more houses. There isn't a SINGLE VACANT HOUSE in Springfield today, and there is RIGHT NOW a demand for 20 or 30 homes. There is right now a dearth in houses and those who wish to come to our town to live, CANT on account of not being able to find a home. Not only is there a scarcity of houses but choice building sites have been hardly obtainable.

Realizing the above conditions we are going to give the people of Springfield and Washington county an opportunity to buy an excellent site for a home. These lots are on South Main Cross Street on the East side of the Street and face West. To the people of Springfield it is best known as "Lebanon Hill." Everyone of these 28 building sites are high and beautiful and the most Southern lot is just the same distance from the center of the city as is Division Avenue. Here one can find an and can have the modern conveniences, such as water and lights. Never before have the citizens of Springfield and Washington county had a better chance to invest in lots that have the future, that have these and so much liberal terms. We will have a number of carriages at your disposal on day of sale and will consider it a favor if you or any of your friends who wish to be called for at your home will see us in person or phone us.

A WORD TO THE FARMER

You who have children to educate CANT AFFORD TO MISS THIS SALE—Springfield's High School has a corps of teachers that are equal to any in the State, and an investigation of the records of the students who have graduated from our school and have entered various universities, is testimony enough as to the fitness of Springfield High School as a seat of learning. Come in Mr. Farmer on December 27th and buy you a site for a home while educating that boy or girl.

Terms of Sale

The terms of sale will be one-fourth cash, balance in three approved personal notes of six, twelve and eighteen months, bearing 6 per cent interest.

TOBACCO BARN BURNED.

State Marshal Neikirk Asked to Investigate Matter by Miller Brothers.

State Fire Marshal W. F. Neikirk has been requested to investigate the fire which destroyed the tobacco barn of Miller and Arch Birch, near Goschen, fourteen miles east of Louisville on the River road. The big frame structure, 100x60 feet, 28,000 pounds of tobacco and farming implements were destroyed, entailing a loss of over $5,000.

Though the owners have received no threatening letters or warning night rider messages they have requested the authorities to investigate into the origin of the fire. They say that so far as they know they have no enemies who might wish to do them harm. They are not affiliated with any of the tobacco organizations and had not pooled the crop. They had occupied the place less than a year.

The fire broke out at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Ralph Birch, twelve years of age, and son Miller Birch, who runs the farm, discovered the blaze, being awakened by the glare of the flames lighting up his room. Almost at the same time Clay Farrel, a farmhand, discovered the fire. Together Farrel and the boy aroused the household.

As the men rushed out of the house en route to the barn to save what they could the roof of the burning building fell in and a few minutes later the sides collapsed. The fire threatened to communicate to the stock barn and the men hastened to release the horses and mules and other stock and drive them into a pasture. The surrounding buildings, which for some time were threatened, were saved.

So intense was the heat that the men were unable to approach within fifty feet of the barn. A new corn planter and two few cultivators were consumed by the flames together with the 28,000 pounds of red Burley tobacco. The fire lit up the sky and could be seen for a distance of several miles. Neighbors went to the scene and offered assistance, but their services were not needed as the flames were beyond control before being detected.

The barn was a new one, having been built last fall at a cost of $1,000. The tobacco was valued at $4,000. Seymour Saltee, a tobacco tenant, owned a half share in the crop. Eighty per cent of the loss is covered by insurance.

Miller Birch moved on the farm with his family in February, coming from Spencer county. He was formerly a tobacco farmer of Washington county, where he was born and reared. He and his brother, Arch Birch, assistant superintendent at the Bonanza Stock Yards, purchased the 184-acre farm, near Goschen, eighteen months ago. Miller Birch says that though he had engaged in tobacco farming most of his life he has never been connected with any of the tobacco troubles which have developed throughout the State in the last three years.—Louisville Times

Reaching the Top

In any calling of life, demands a vigorous body and keen brain. Without health there is no success. But Electric Bitters is the greatest health builder the world has ever known. It compels perfect action stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels, purifies and enriches the blood, tones and invigorates the whole system and enables you to stand the wear and tear of your daily work. "After months of suffering from kidney trouble," writes W. M. Sherahan, of Corning, Me., "three bottles of Electric Bitters make me feel like a new man 50 years of age."—Hayden & Robertson.

Good Roads Congress.

Much depends upon the wisdom and the progressive spirit shown by the Good Road Congress which meets in Louisville on the 28th and 29th of this month. The census figures and many other things which have recently come to the attention of the public demonstrate the Kentucky is lagging in the rear of the column of States. The fault is not with either our soil or resources, but more a lack of a progressive spirit upon the part of its citizens. Our miserable roads in many sections of the State have driven thousands to seek homes in other States and unless "time mend our ways" this immigration will continue. The first and the most important step to stop emigration from Kentucky is to build good roads. We must follow in the footsteps of thirty other States and provide State Aid. It is needed more especially in Kentucky than any other State because of our varied conditions. Shall Kentucky take its first great advanced step in progress or shall it pursue its old methods will be answered by the Good Roads Congress on the 28th instant. We believe we are fully awake to the importance of good roads and a full realization that we cannot secure them in most sections without State aid. The synopsis of the measure proposed, if put upon the statutes, after it is adopted by the Congress or enlarged upon, will transform Kentucky in another decade. The State tax of five cents on the hundred dollars is the heart of the bill, without that we can do nothing, with that we launch Kentucky forward in a great step of progress. It will help the farmer, it will increase the value of his land, it will put him in closer touch with the market, it will improve the rural school, it will keep our young men on the farm and will in ten years increase the valuation of Kentucky property twice or more what all the roads cost.—Elizabethtown News.

FOUND GUILTY

Is Negro Who Helped to Hang Carl Etherington In Ohio.

Newark, O., Dec. 17.—The jury in the case of Montalla Watts, the Haytian negro, charged with first degree murder, in connection with the lynching of Carl Etherington, an Anti-Saloon League detective, returned a verdict of manslaughter today. The jury had been out since Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock and stayed up practically all night in considering the case.

The lynching of Etherington occurred last July and was due to the bitter liquor fight, the saloons remaining open for a year in Newark after the county had voted "dry." The Anti-Saloon League sent Etherington into town to get evidence against the saloonists and the riot followed.

This is the first conviction of rioters in the case, others having been convicted on minor offenses. Over twenty more of the alleged rioters are to be tried.

Female Jurors.

Olympia, Wash., Dec. 14.—Sitting in the jury box without removing their hats, five prominent Olympia women listened all afternoon and until late last night to testimony and arguments of lawyers trying the case of A. Koch, a milkman, against Foul's & Caldwell, street contractors. Koch claimed that a blast set off by the contractors caused his team to run away and do damage to the extent of $10.05. The jurors are Miss Jean McLeod, a stenographer to Governor Hays; Miss Berice Sapp, court stenographer; Mrs. J. W. Howell, wife of a prominent physician; Mrs. Frank Blakeslee, wife of the Democratic candidate for the legislature last November, and Rev. Genevieve Lake, one of the few ordained female ministers in Washington. After being out an hour the women returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, awarding the full amount of damages asked. According to attorneys' here this is the first time in Washington, if not in the United States, that a female jury, drawn from a venire of women only, has been selected to try a case. Judge Gilles, of the Justice Court, who presided, declared that the jury of women is superior to any that ever sat in his court.

High School

Building Damaged.

A little after noon Monday, an alarm of fire was heard and it was soon ascertained that the Lawrenceburg Graded School building was on fire. The news spread rapidly, and in a short time nearly every mother in town was either at the fire or the telephone trying to find out whether their children were safe. The children were all gotten out of the burning building without any injury, but they suffered great anxiety on account of wraps and books they thought would be lost. The fire started in the basement from a damaged stove and ate its way along the lower floors and in a short time would have gained considerably had it not been gotten under control. As it was, all the lower floors were damaged so that they will have to be made new, and the furnace was also damaged. The loss is estimated at something like $1,500. The Board of Trustees held a meeting and are temporarily repairing the damage, so that school can reconvene by next Monday. It is thought they will not permanently repair the damage until next summer, when it can be ascertained how badly the walls are injured.

Bank To Quit Business.

Lawrenceburg, Ky., Dec. 16.—

The Witherspoon National Bank on this city, at a recent meeting of the directors, decided to go into voluntary liquidation. The bank is solvent. This institution was organized in 1907 with a capital stock of $100,000 and $25,000 surplus. The promoter was the late A. C. Witherspoon, who was also the principal stockholder and president, the position of cashier being filled by his son, W. G. Witherspoon.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 15.—

The Crop Reporter issued today by the Agricultural Department contains some interesting statistics on the tobacco crop in Kentucky.

It makes comparisons between the farm value of this year's crop and the crop in the same period of 1909, and also shows the difference in a ten years' period.

The farm value of the Kentucky tobacco crop on December 1, was 2.7 cents per pound, as against 10.6 cents in 1909, and 7.5 in 1900.

Died at Raywick.

Roscoe, little son of Arthur and Effie Carrio. Age five years. He was a bright sweet child that every one loved. All that medical skill could do was done. Dr. Peterson, of this place, was his physician and he deemed it necessary to have a tube put in his throat. Then in the cold dark night Dr. Thornton came from Lebanon and inserted the tube. For the next 26 hours he seemed to be getting along very well. But other complications arose, and on the morning of Dec. 1, 1910, he left his happy home desolate and went to a brighter one above.

Grave not loved one, though a link is broken in the home circle a chain is forming in a better land. One Who Loved Him.

Copped the Quarts.

Last Thursday night the police seized seventeen quarts of whiskey from Will Clay, whose trips to Lawrenceburg were so frequent as to arouse suspicion. At Thursday night he got off the train with a grip and suit case, and the police nailed him and made him open them. In the suit case was found ten quarts, in the grip were six and another quart was found in his pocket. He could name the people for whom he had brought the six quarts in the grip, but could give no account of the destination of the ten quarts in the suit case. He was tried on a charge of bringing liquor into town for sale and was fined $100 and given thirty days in the work house.—Harrodsburg Herald.

A Stick Article.

A story comes from Ohio that in a certain congressional district in that state the G. O. P. candidate gave his contributions to the campaign fund in the different counties in checks dated the day after the election. He explained that he was doing this to "beat that fool law about reporting expenses." The committee held the checks, putting their own good money into the pot. When the day after the election rolled around the number of the checks had been altered to stay at home, and when the checks were presented there were "no funds." Naturally there was some lamentation in the land, and this "no win no pay" candidate has eliminated himself from future consideration at the hands of the faithful.—Frankfort Journal.

Abolishes Whipping.

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 16.—At the meeting of the Lexington School Board the board, with only one dissenting vote, adopted a rule proposed by Judge S. M. Wilson, which abolishes the whipping of girls in the public schools and pupils of either sex in the high school.

Colored Residence Burned.

On last Friday morning at 2 o'clock the people of Springfield were aroused from their slumbers by the alarm of fire. It was found to be a colored residence on High Street, and when discovered, the entire building was in flames and the roof was falling in. The building was a large frame structure and was occupied by three colored families. It was the property of Cella Rowe, a reputable colored citizen who had purchased it a short time ago. The home of Anthony Grady caught from the burning building and was considerably damaged before the fire was extinguished. The fire department responded immediately, but the larger building was too far gone to be saved.

Letter To Santa Claus.

Springfield, Ky.
Dec. 20th 1910.

Dear Santa Claus:
My name is Shelton Jeffries. I am ten years old. Mother says I am getting too large to have any to, this Christmas; any way I wasn't expecting very much, so going at mother's advice you need not stop long at my house. Stop just long enough to fill my stockings with five crackers and a few raisins, nuts, fruits, dates and prunes.

Well Old Santa I made up my mind to hang up a stocking, for my little dog named "Peter Snuggles." He likes nuts and popcorn, and best of all, beef steak, pork, sausage and liver. He is a real good dog to be so mean I think. He makes every body get up at four o'clock. You will have to look out or he will eat you up. Well Old Santa Claus, Goodbye.

From a friend,
Charlie Shelton Jeffries.

Growing

Mr. W. H. Vaden and Mr. W.
A. Waters Jr., have purchased from Hertlein & Bottoms, a tract of six acres of land on the East side of Springfield and Lebanon turnpike, beginning at Ralph Hickerson's and running to a point opposite the intersection of pike running to Mr. W. F.
Booker's. The property will be sold in 28 city lots at public auction on Tuesday, December 27, at 2 o'clock p.m.

We are highly gratified that someone has started the ball rolling, to build a larger town for as everyone knows it has been a hard proposition to secure a residence in Springfield, every house being occupied. While this opening will make space for a large number of houses yet more openings will be necessary in order to accommodate the large growth of the town which has been phenomenal since the opening of the tobacco market, which, has brought to Springfield quite a large number of people.

These lots are well located and in a most excellent neighborhood

Medical Society Meeting

The Washington County Medical Society held its meeting at the Court House on last Tuesday.
The morning session was devoted to business. Dr. J. C. Madd was elected President for the ensuing year, Dr. M. W. Hyatt, Vice-President and Dr. J. H.
Hopper Secretary. Dr. J. H.
Hopper was elected delegate to the Kentucky Medical Association, Dr. A. Y. Hatchett and Dr.
Gabbard were elected censors.
Drs. Gabbard, Thompson and Hyatt were named to have papers at the next meeting, which will take place on the second Tuesday in January.

Following the business meeting an illustrated lecture was given at the Baptist church by Dr. Eugene Kerner Secretary of the State Anti-Tuberculosis League. A fair sized crowd was present and the lecture was of such a character as to be instructive to the general public as well as to the medical profession

San Francisco Disaster.

Mr. Sam J. Allen, local representative of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, will deliver a lecture at the Opera House Monday evening, December 26th, on the destruction of San Francisco.
The lecture has been given several times to crowded houses.
One thing in particular about the lecture that will recommend it to all, is that it is not a word picture which is the product of the imagination, but Mr. Allen tells what actually occurred there, having lost all his belongings in the fire, and barely escaped with his life.

He is very capable of giving an entertaining lecture and will have a full house.

Miss Martha Tucker Dead

Miss Martha Tucker died at the home of her father, John Tucker, near Fredericktown on the evening of December; twenty-third at seven o'clock, after a short illness.

The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. Williams, of Springfield, at New Hope church on Sunday, the burial in the New Hope church.

THE END OF A NOBLE LIFE

Sketch suggested by the passing away of Martha Tucker.
I count it truth with him who sings To one clear harp in diverse tones, That men may rise on stepping stones,
Of their dead selves to higher things.

And the stately ships go on,
To their haven under the hill But oh for the touch of a vanished hand And the sound of a voice that is still.

A woman stood at a western window in a comfortable country home watching the red sunset above snow covered hills. A this gray mist hung lovingly against the hill tops softening their blackness and the outlines of the bare trees. The scene was one of beauty and peace, but, cold and unresponsive save for the glow of the sinking sun.

The woman noticed the contrast as she turned and looked within. A bright fire burned in the grate; a square piano was against one wall; the firelight gleaming on the white keys; a luxuriant green fern was back of the music rack whereon was no music, neither was the strings of the instruments likely to be disturbed for a long time for within the thick curtains of the bay window was a white velvet covered casket wherein lay all that was earthly of one for whom the sun of life had gone down and the chords of whose soul would produce harmonies only on eternal shores.

The chickens had gone to roost, the last contented chirp had ceased along with all the cackle and rustling of wings common to a yard of fowls.

Where was she who usually went about at this hour to see that all was well with them from the sleekest among them to the ugliest fledgling? Had they missed her attentions? Would they not marvel to see her lying here clothed in white silk, chiffon and lace, her brown hair puffed softly about her face? She had not come among them in such garments as these.

Not but she would wear them forevermore. The homely duties were all done, the homely gowns all laid aside and now for the shining garments, the songs of joy, the rest by the river of life, the seat in the court around the throne.

It seemed to her, alone in the room with the dead, that the life had not been quite finished, the harmony quite rounded out but that a string had snapped, suddenly halting the music.
Somehow out of the great sacrifice of that ended life, the renouncing of all that makes life more endurable, to serve stern, beautiful, duty, we will earthly reward; but there has been more promised and seldom is it given.

Of the redeemed it is written "There are they who have come out of much tribulations."

To serve duty is to be isolated on a rock of loneliness, to be misunderstood perhaps, but ah, the reward is on distant shores where the standards of earth are not recognized.

What matters it that the golden grain that yielded a hundred fold is gathered into the barns; what matters tho' the cattle graze on a thousand hills; what matters tho, an aged mother and father droop for want of her loving arms about them. "It is finished: come up higher: leave the duty to other: be the infinite the divine decree. What you thought essential is not so. In spite of warnings and examples of ages you brightened ones still cling to the flesh pots. How shall I teach you save by bitter sorrow. This night is her soul required of thee. So she who
